

COVID-19 POLL

40% of Indians deem social organizations as trustworthy

Team CVoter conducted a series of surveys to find out the level of trust Indians placed in social organizations in 2018 and 2020. Levels of trust in social organizations such as non-government organizations (NGOs) and government-funded organizations such as orphanages, old age homes and others remained relatively unchanged from 2018 to 2020.

Team Polstrat breaks down the levels of trust in social organizations across demographics in India over the past 2 years.

Q How much do you trust the following institutions? Do you have; a lot of trust, some trust or no trust at all in Social Organizations?

The rank of social organizations amongst all 18 institutions asked about in the survey fell in 2020 as compared to 2018.

Breaking Down 2020 Data

Social Organisations

Overall, the level of trust in social organizations rose from 39.1% in 2018 to 40.6% in 2020. At the same time, the percentage of respondents who were uncertain about their level of trust in social organizations also grew by 8.3% in the past 2 years.

Most demographics, across, age, gender, social, income and education groups recorded a slight change in their levels of trust in social organizations.

Those in middle education, middle and high-income groups recorded a slight increase in their level of trust in social organizations, while, low income and middle education groups recorded a slight increase.

All social groups, except for Scheduled Tribes (ST), Other Backward Classes (OBC) and Christians reported a slight decline in trust in social organizations.

Those living in urban areas had higher levels of trust in social organizations than those living in rural areas.

All survey findings and projections are based on the Team CVoter "Trust in Institutions" survey carried out in 2010, 2018 and 2020 among 18+ adults statewide, including every major demographic.

The data is weighted to the known demographic profile of every state, including age group, social group, income, region, gender and education levels.
