

COVID-19 POLL

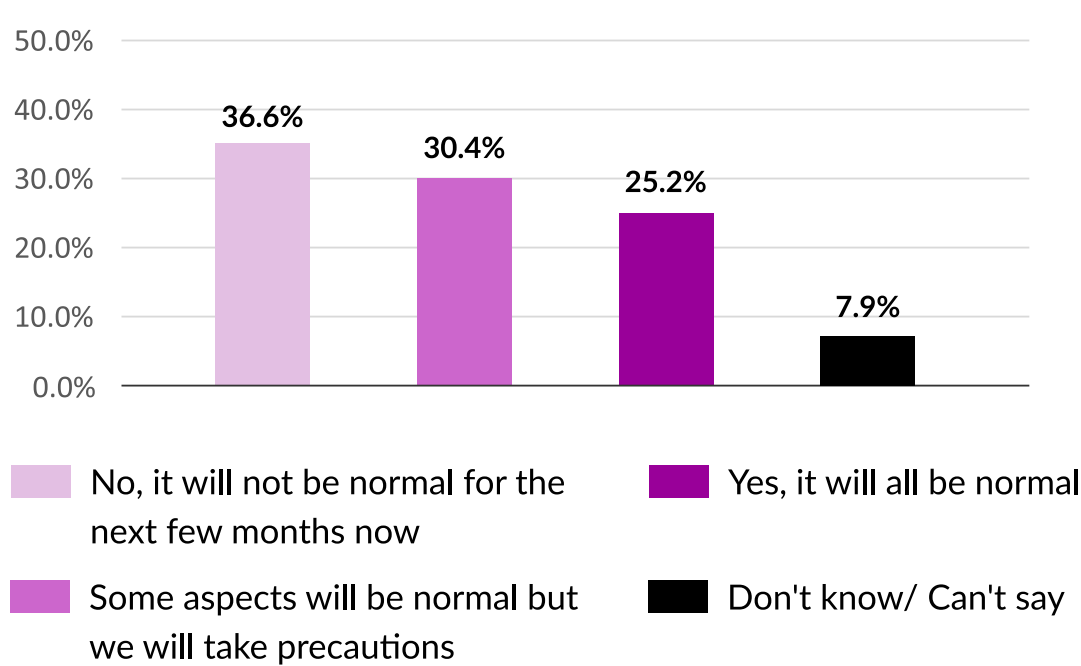

25.2% of Indians think life will come back to normal once the Coronavirus lockdown is lifted

The Team CVoter Corona Tracker Economy Battery (Wave 4) survey conducted in the first week of June 2020 asked respondents about the effect the Coronavirus crisis and lockdown had on their income, savings, future expenses and optimism about things getting back to normal.

In today's infographic, Team Polstrat breaks down the optimism in the country about things getting back to "normal" once the lockdown is lifted.

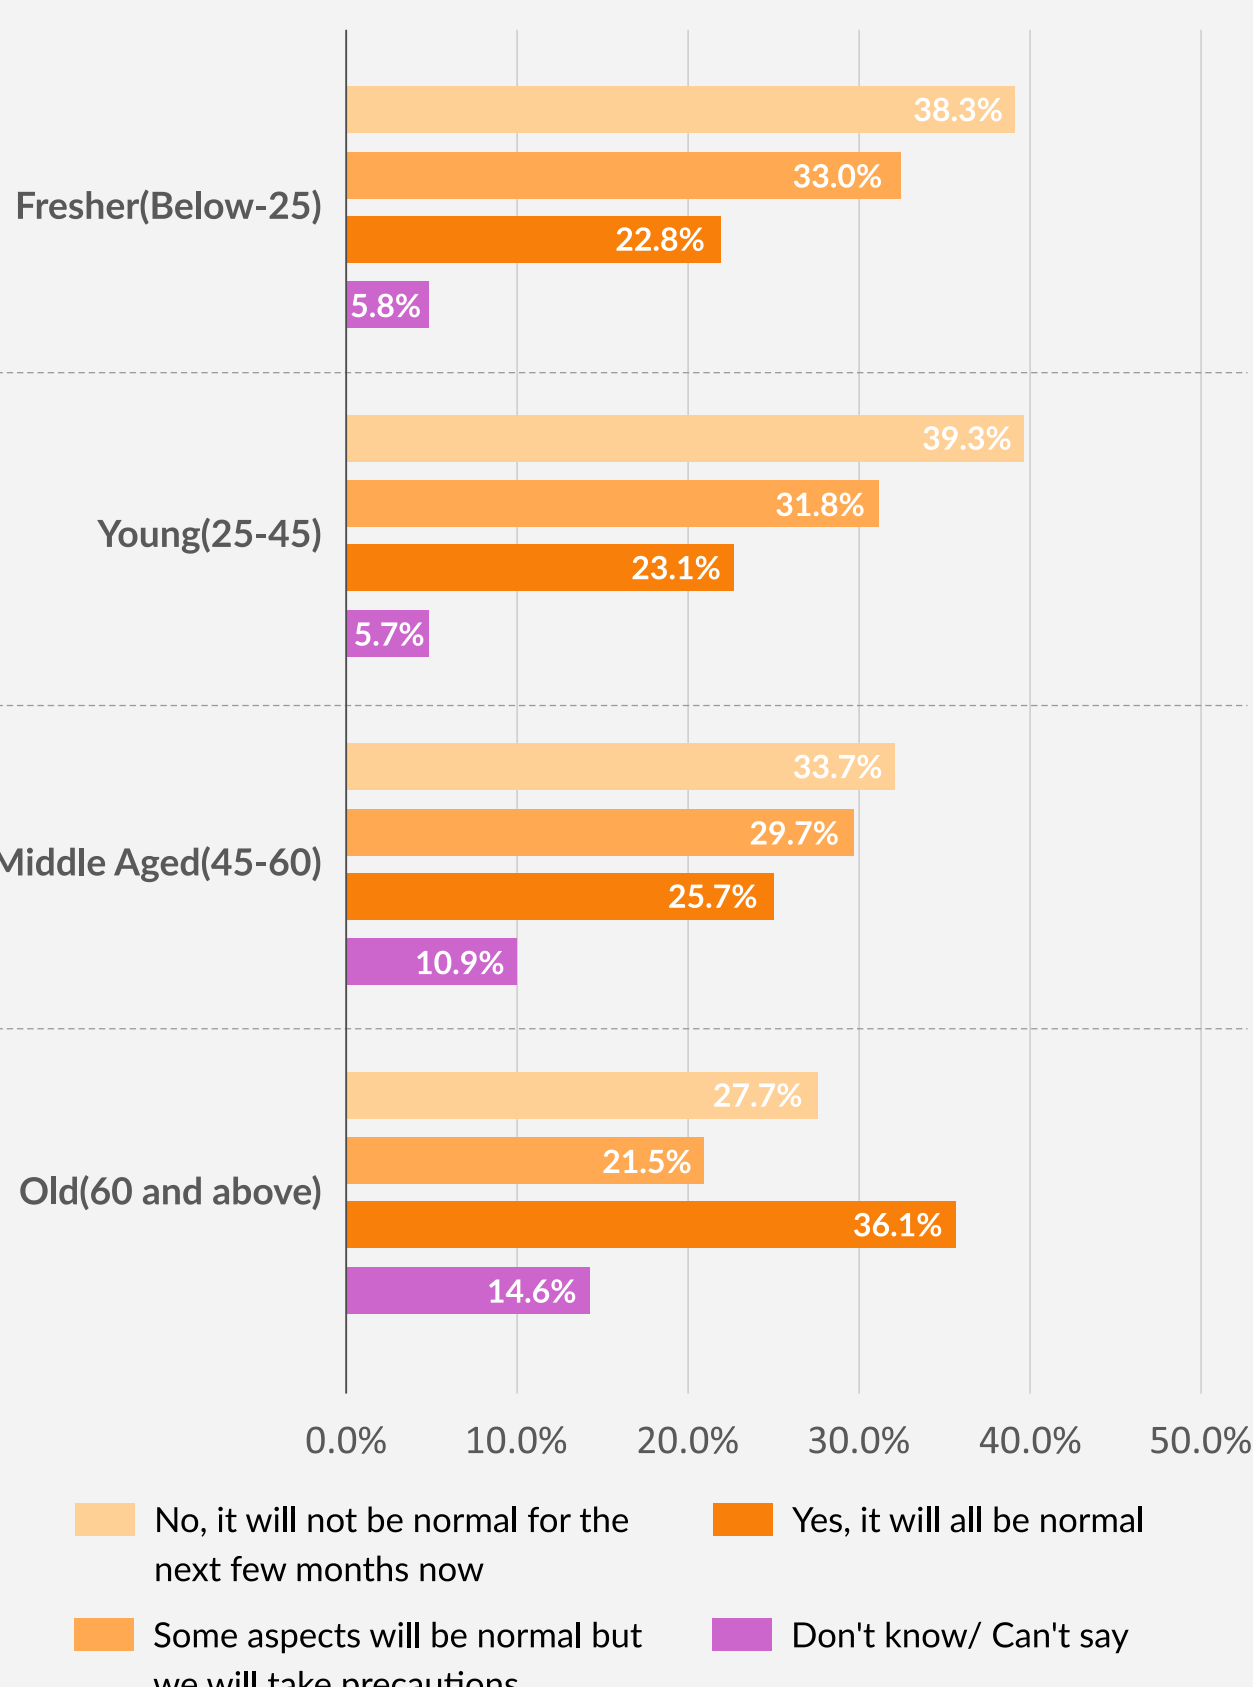

Q Do you think life will come back to normal once the lockdown is removed?

Overall, the majority of Indians remain optimistic about life getting back to normal after the lockdown is lifted. While around 25% of people think everything will be normal, an additional 30.4% think while most things will be normal, some precautions will be necessary.

Which age groups are most optimistic about things getting back to normal?

Overall, those in the older age groups are much more optimistic about life being absolutely normal once the lockdown is lifted as compared to other age groups.

Freshers (below 25) are the least optimistic about things being absolutely normal.

All survey findings and projections are based on the Team CVoter COVID 19 survey wave 4 carried out in June 2020 among 18+ adults statewide, including every major demographic.

The data is weighted to the known demographic profile of every state, including age group, social group, income, region, gender and education levels.
